

KOSHA to Expand Operation of ‘Safety & Health CEO Program’

- ☐ Aiming to support CEO's engaging in safety and health management activities, the OSHTI offers the ‘Safety & Health CEO Program’ for CEO's from various business enterprises.
- ☐ ‘Safety & Health CEO Program’ was developed based on a mission to provide educational programs designed to help realizing safety and health management measures that lead the changes and innovations under the ever-changing safety and health environment, and the program is currently recruiting trainees with a plan to launch the program in the mid April at 2 universities currently selected.
  - The program is composed of policy directions for occupational safety and health, management strategy on safety and health, leadership with occupational safety and health, labor-management relations and humanities curriculums where the best qualified instructors in Korea are scheduled to oversee the program with 2-hour-long course, once a week from the mid April until the end of November at the Catholic University of Korea (capital area) and the University of Ulsan (other regions).
- ☐ Shin, Director General of OSHTI, said, “I hope safety culture to spread further and farther throughout industrial sites and local communities as safety and health would be recognized as an essential strategy for all business managements through this Safety and Health CEO Program.”
