KOSHA sign agreement on cooperation with Doosan Heavy Industries & Construction, to harness media content and develop video clips for education and safety-experience training

7th September

KOSHA and Doosan Heavy Industries & Construction moves together for the safety training on the workplaces.

President Baek of KOSHA signed MOU on using media content of industrial safety with vice president Kim of the Doosan Heavy Industries & Construction at meeting room of the company located in Changwon, Gyeongnam province on 7th.

As part of signing MOU, KOSHA provides the company with 41 types of 3-D media content which was made to train workers through virtual experiences. The company then uses the materials to train 16,000 workers including those working at its partnered companies and its subsidiaries.

The Doosan Heavy Industries and Construction builds ‘safety experience center’ with the area of 3,094 m², within the Chang-won complex in Gyeongnam Province on June next year. The materials provided by KOSHA will be harnessed at the ‘virtual safety experience booth’ at the center.

Meanwhile, KOSHA also receives educational video clips from the Doosan, which were developed by the Doosan Heavy Industries to harness them to run the safety training at KOSHA.

KOSHA has been running programs such as virtual program to experience safety and construction safety since 1997 in an effort to prevent accidents at 6 centers in Gwangju, Daegu, Daejeon, Busan and Incheon.

Further, KOSHA and Doosan heavy industries give consultation in: jointly developing media content; finding ways to expand usage of educational materials; building ‘safety-experience training center’ of the Doosan company.

Director Park of the Training and Media Department said “This signing of MOU would improve the effectiveness of the area-wide OSH training in Gyeongnam Province, contributing to enhancing the awareness of workers.” adding that KOSHA supports the company by providing OSH safety materials not only to the heavy industrial sector but also all sectors.
